Review of Australian Standards. To keep abreast of progress in industry, Australian Standards are subject to periodic review and are kept up to date by the issue of amendments or new editions as necessary. It is important therefore that Standards users ensure that they are in possession of the latest edition, and any amendments thereto.

Full details of all Australian Standards and related publications will be found in the Standards Australia Catalogue of Publications; this information is supplemented each month by the magazine 'The Australian Standard', which subscribing members receive, and which gives details of new publications, new editions and amendments, and of withdrawn Standards.

Suggestions for improvements to Australian Standards, addressed to the head office of Standards Australia, are welcomed. Notification of any inaccuracy or ambiguity found in an Australian Standard should be made without delay in order that the matter may be investigated and appropriate action taken.

PREFACE

This Standard was prepared by the Standards Australia Committee on Chainsaw Safety as a revision of AS 2726—1984, Chainsaws—Safety requirements.

The edition takes into account the technological changes that have taken place in chainsaw design since the publication of the previous edition and the cranking effort requirement has been deleted.

As far as possible, ISO specifications and tests have been adopted where appropriate.

The following ISO documents were referred to during the preparation of the Standard:

ISO

6534:1992	Portable chain-saw—Hand-guards—Mechanical strength
6535:1991	Portable chain-saws—Chain brake performance
7293:1983	Forestry machinery—Portable chain saws—Engine performance and fuel consumption
7505:1986	Forestry machinery—Chain saws—Measurement of hand-transmitted vibration
7914:1986	Forestry machinery—Portable chain saws—Minimum handle clearance and sizes
7915:1991	Forestry machinery—Portable chain-saws—Determination of handle strength
TR 9412:1991	Portable chain-saws—Automatic chain brake and cutting equipment—Operator's safety test
9518:1992	Forestry machinery—Portable chain-saws—Kickback test

The assistance of these documents is acknowledged.

The term 'normative' has been used in this Standard to define the application of the appendix to which it applies. A 'normative' appendix is an integral part of a Standard.

Users of Standards are reminded that copyright subsists in all Standards Australia publications and software. Except where the Copyright Act allows and except where provided for below no publications or software produced by Standards Australia may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system in any form or transmitted by any means without prior permission in writing from Standards Australia. Permission may be conditional on an appropriate royalty payment. Requests for permission and information on commercial software royalties should be directed to the head office of Standards Australia.

Standards Australia will permit up to 10 percent of the technical content pages of a Standard to be copied for use exclusively in-house by purchasers of the Standard without payment of a royalty or advice to Standards Australia.

Standards Australia will also permit the inclusion of its copyright material in computer software programs for no royalty payment provided such programs are used exclusively in-house by the creators of the programs.

Care should be taken to ensure that material used is from the current edition of the Standard and that it is updated whenever the Standard is amended or revised. The number and date of the Standard should therefore be clearly identified.

The use of material in print form or in computer software programs to be used commercially, with or without payment, or in commercial contracts is subject to the payment of a royalty. This policy may be varied by Standards Australia at any time.
